The only one who can

“Possible”

Sumedha Kumar, Hong Kong, Aug 2009

This is an unforgettable experience related to my Dubai based younger brother Shri. Rajeev Dutt's family. This experience proves that regardless of whichever corner of the world one is in, our Sadguru Aniruddha Babu's blessings are always with him. Our Sadguru promptly comes forward to rescue a devotee from the trials and tribulations of life by conquering entire eras, time and distance.

In May 2002, my sister-in-law delivered a wonderful baby girl. She was named "Eesha." Since my brother is stationed in Dubai, my sister-in-law returned to Dubai with the baby 3 months post delivery. Since Eesha is the youngest member of the family, everyone would pamper her. However, even after having celebrated her first birthday, she could not stand on her own feet. I was worried and had an inkling of apparent disaster. Family members pacified me by saying that some children do achieve certain developmental milestones such as standing, walking etc later than usual. Well, I was in Hong Kong while my brother and his wife were in Dubai and thus, the only thing I could do for them was to advise them to take Eesha regularly to the doctor for her usual check-ups. Finally, Eesha started walking at 18 months. Since I was terribly worried for her, my brother videotaped her walk and sent it across to me at Hong Kong. After viewing the Video clip, instead of feeling relieved, I became more worried. I did not find Eesha's walk normal. I, once again, asked my brother to consult a doctor. My sister said, "You worry unnecessarily. These days since children use diapers, she must be walking the way she walks." I felt sad thinking about my negative thinking pattern.

In December 2004, my cousin was to get married in Mumbai where the whole family was going to meet together. However, my Sadguru had something else planned. He knew that no more time could be wasted further. That is how my sister-in-law decided to come to Mumbai during Diwali instead of December and further decided to stay put until the wedding was over. After they arrived in Mumbai, I enquired about Eesha's well-being. She confessed that she too had begun worrying about Eesha. I told them to immediately take Eesha to Suchitdada without wasting any time. By the grace and timely intervention of Sucitdada they managed to meet a pediatric orthopedic doctor in Mumbai. The doctor said that they had approached him at the most appropriate time because had there been any delay, Eesha would have become physically handicapped for the rest of her life.

Truly, it was not us who had rushed to the doctor in time. It was our Sadguru who had rushed to us. It is due to his blessings that my sister-in-law happened to come to Mumbai ahead of her scheduled visit and later we obtained his guidance. Since he was a specialist in the same field, he immediately started his treatment for Eesha. In a human body, the joint where the Leg bones are attached to the pelvis, the bone around that area had not developed well in Eesha and that was the reason for Eesha's unnatural walk. She needed to be operated on both her joints. The first surgery was performed over a period of 6 hours and it required her to have her leg plastered for a period of 2 months post-surgery. The day of the second surgery coincided with the day of my cousin's marriage. It had to be done that day because the doctor was traveling outstation for a period of 15 days after that and delaying the surgery meant exposing her to further risk. We took turns to attend the wedding and be at the hospital to provide support and assistance. We managed to sail through such a difficult situation only due to the support and strength that Sadguru Bapu provided to us.

The second surgery went on for almost 7 hours. Doctors were really pleased with the results of the surgery. They assured us that baby's recovery would be fast and wonderful. Eesha was going to stay in a below waist plaster for almost 2 months after that. Anyone would have been devastated to see a child in that state, but my brother and sister-in-law have immense faith in Bapu. They were indebted to Bapu for saving their little daughter from an impending physical handicap for life. Eesha recovered extremely well with the support of physiotherapy after removing the plaster. Physiotherapists treating her were amazed at her speedy recovery. Everyone was sad that Eesha had to miss school for almost a year. Sadguru Bapu provided a solution for this issue as well. After returning to Dubai, Eesha got admission in Cambridge School and in within a year, she also got double promotion. Thereby, Eesha did not miss her academic year. The epitome of this experience lies in the fact that Eesha received the second prize in a race held in her school. All of this is the Grace of Sadguru Bapu!
